Toddler choked by power cord

GREENLAWN. A 2-year-old girl died in Long Island on Saturday when she was choked by an electrical cord hanging from an air-conditioner. Suffolk County police said that Malana Ingram got tangled in the cord connected to an air-conditioner about six feet off the ground, at about 1 p.m. Police said she was found by a family member and taken to the hospital, where she died. A police spokesman said no charges have been filed. METRO/AB

YANKEE STADIUM. A woman was hit in the head yesterday by a foul ball off Jorge Posada's bat during the Yankees home game against the Tampa Bay Rays. The woman, who was taken to a hospital, was seated along the first-base line. The accident comes only days after a fan died after a fall trying to catch a ball at a Texas Rangers game last week. Murder at Union Square

UNION SQUARE. A homeless man was killed early Friday morning at Union Square Park after reportedly being beaten with a bike lock. Cops said Stanley Novak, 56, was beaten to death after he and another homeless man got into an argument. He died at Bellevue Hospital from head trauma. Keenan Bryce, 29, was arrested and charged with murder. METRO/AB

30-year-old urban explorer photographs herself, nude, in industrial New York ◐ Images of feminine beauty amidst stark urban structures

Manhattan artist Miru Kim, 30, has a knack for discovering hidden realms of New York City and photographing herself amongst the ruins — naked.

Her collection of work, "Naked City Spleen," includes familiar sites like the Williamsburg Bridge, the Old Croton Aqueduct in the Bronx, Arthur Kill Ship Graveyard in Staten Island and the Revere Sugar Factory in Red Hook.

For five years, she has meticulously researched New York's history and explored its unseen infrastructure. She disrobes and caresses the walls with her body at each location.

"The city has an anatomy and a psyche as complex as that of any human being," said Kim.

The massive framework of New York's abandoned subway stations, tunnels, sewers, catacombs, factories, hospitals and shipyards are the city's "intestines and veins," she explains.

She inserts her naked body into the "organism" of the metropolis.

"I have always been fascinated by living beings reclaiming the urban ruins," said Kim. "Envisioning imaginary beings that could dwell in these spaces, I began to occupy them myself."

Her artwork has been heralded internationally, though she has gotten into more than a few scrapes with local law enforcement, she says.

She's been chased by police officers, encountered a violent homeless man in an abandoned Hell's Kitchen tunnel, and eluded NYPD helicopters for the sake of her art.

New FDA Cleared Treatment Proven to Relieve Knee Pain

Treatment Covered by Most Major Health Insurance Plans – Including Medicare.

Do you suffer from knee pain?

"Hi, we are the doctors from NY Rehab and did you know that over 100 million Americans suffer from knee and joint pain? In fact, this pain accounts for 25% of all visits to primary care physicians and half of all anti-inflammatory drug prescriptions.

Have you ever wondered how different your life would be if you could get rid of your knee pain? Where would you go, what would you do? What would you give for a day or a week or a lifetime of pain free mobility? I'm pleased to announce that knee pain sufferers don't have to wait any longer to get the most advanced non-surgical FDA cleared treatment.

If you suffer from any degree of knee pain I invite you to regain control of your life by visiting NY Rehab, a state of the art medical facility."

What causes osteoarthritis?

The cause of osteoarthritis is unknown. Factors that might cause it include the following:

- Being overweight
- Getting Older (wear and tear)
- Joint Injury
- Joints that are not properly formed (alignment/imbalance problems)
- A genetic defect in the joint cartilage
- Stresses on the joints from certain activities including sports, work and leisure activities

CONSIDER THESE FACTS BEFORE SURGERY:

	Osteoarthritis Treatment at NY Rehab	Surgery
Cost	Covered by most insurance plans including Medicare	Deductable, Co-pay, medications, time off work, etc
Risk	No known side affects	Complications, poor Outcome, addiction to pain medications
Pain	Little to none	Can be severe for Months
Recovery	Immediate	Months/years

What else is available to treat knee pain?

After careful study and several trials the FDA cleared a new treatment aimed at helping those with knee pain. This new treatment is a high tech answer for all those who think that surgery, dietary supplements and prescription medications are the only option to eliminate knee pain.

When will I feel results?

Most people feel better in a matter of weeks and can begin enjoying everyday activities.

"When I first went into the clinic I had a great deal of pain in my left knee. I had to give up tennis and bowling. Also, I had a difficult time walking and traversing stairs. Since my treatment, I am able to get back to tennis. Walking and stairs are pain free! My sincerest thanks to all of you for making my visits very pleasant!

—Lorraine Ganz

Will my insurance cover this treatment?

YES, most major insurances and Medicare will pay for some if not all of our services.

Who is a good candidate for this treatment?

Do you wake up with knee pain?
Does your knee pain keep you from certain activities?
Have you been told you need a knee replacement?
Are you active and sometime suffer from sore knees?
Do you take medications for knee pain?
Do you have difficulty going up and down stairs due to knee pain?
Are you considering surgery to alleviate knee pain?
Have you tried everything to get rid of knee pain with no success?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, you are ready to experience the relief and healing found at NY Rehab.

How do I know that this is right for me?

In most cases, if you have knee pain, this is a great solution. Our doctors will give you an honest and fair evaluation of your particular knee pain. Space is Limited for the First 30 Callers! Call today to schedule your Knee Evaluation.

NOW IS THE TIME TO TAKE CONTROL OF YOUR LIFE AND SAY GOODBYE TO KNEE PAIN THE NON-SURGICAL WAY!

Web pharmacies mailing addiction

- Websites send bulk shipments of pills illegally
- Drugs easily available, with no prescription needed

Steven Kovacs just wanted to concentrate on school, said his mother.

Classmates told him he should take Adderall to help him focus and Xanax to bring him down off the buzz. He regularly started popping both pills, which he ordered from illegal online pharmacies. He became addicted and died of an overdose at 22, according to his mother, Joni Kovacs-Howe of Jericho, Long Island.

"He got so caught up in the spiraling of this stuff," said Kovacs-Howe. "It's an epidemic."

Yesterday, New York Sen. Charles Schumer called for a crackdown on these pharmacies, which he said sell pills with just one click of a mouse — no doctor's signature needed.

Quoted

"They lose faith in themselves. When they're studying on Adderall for a two-year period, they don't have faith in themselves anymore."
JONI KOVACS-HOWE

Schumer called on the United States Department of Justice and the Drug Enforcement Agency to shut down the sites. He also wants credit-card companies to block payments to any of the websites.

Kovacs initially got a prescription for Adderall and Xanax from a doctor near his Tennessee college, his mother said. But back in New York, after graduating with honors, his Long Island family doctor refused to prescribe the drugs, she said.

So he ordered them online, which sent bulk shipments.

"I don't want anyone to die from these stupid drugs," Kovacs-Howe said.

Pressure on debt ceiling compromise

U.S. Treasury Secretary Timothy Geithner warned yesterday that failure to raise the debt ceiling by Aug. 2 could mean "catastrophic damage" to the economy. Therefore, an agreement must be reached.

Credit-rating agencies have additionally threatened to downgrade U.S. debt if there is a risk of default.

Republicans and Democrats are at odds over how to go about reducing the budget deficit, which lawmakers have tied to any agreement on raising the $14.3 trillion cap on U.S. borrowing authority.

"We have no option except to come together. And the question is, again, not whether we're going to have an agreement. We're going to have an agreement. The question is: Are we going to have an agreement that's going to be good for the economy?" Geithner said. REUTERS

Casey Anthony scam attacks Facebook users

There's a new Web scam afoot involving the Casey Anthony trial, the woman accused but then acquitted last week of killing her 2-year-old daughter.

A post on Facebook promises a video of a Casey Anthony confession, or a link to a video chat. Ignore it, experts warned yesterday. The links will download malware onto users' computers.

The Facebook teaser shouts "BREAKING NEWS - Leaked Video of Casey Anthony CONFESSING to Lawyer!"

But clicking on the link takes users to an "age verification" box that reads: "Are you older than 13 years of age? Click "Jaa" button to confirm and play video."

But one click of the button means users are granting permission for the malware to be shared on their Facebook network. METRO

Pakistan cut off?

WASHINGTON. The United States is withholding some $800 million in military assistance to Pakistan in a show of displeasure over its cutback on U.S. trainers, limits on visas for U.S. personnel and other bilateral irritants, the Obama administration said yesterday.

Pakistani authorities have "taken some steps that have given us reason to pause on some of the aid which we're giving to the military," White House Chief of Staff William Daley said on ABC. REUTERS

Study: Student aid doesn't fill up seats

Grant money may not help college students finish their degree, researchers report ◗ At-risk still benefit

A new study into the effects of financial aid to help needy people attend college has found that the money makes little difference to whether or not students completed their degree programs.

In fact, according to the Wisconsin Scholars Longitudinal Study, in some cases the money had a negative effect on college attendance and graduation

The research found that cash — including Pell Grants which have been awarded to 5.4 million needy American students — may benefit at-risk students considered more likely to drop out of college — but that the money might also make a student considered "most likely to succeed" more likely to leave without completing a degree.

The Wisconsin study began in 2008 and offered extra financial help of $3,500 a year to students who were already eligible for Pell Grants, which are capped at a maximum of $5,500.

"We find that students respond to formal cash incentives in unexpected ways," said the research authors, including Sara Goldrick-Rab of the University of Wisconsin.

EDUCATIONOPTION.COM

Taken for granted

Researchers surveyed 1,500 students — 600 of whom received extra cash through the Wisconsin scheme, and a further 900 who get only Pell Grants.

- The extra cash made no difference to college attendance and achievement.
- Insidehighered.com, which first reported the study, noted: "The overall results provide a bleak picture for the effects of financial aid: Few were positive, and some were negative."
- It said that even supporters of aid schemes such as Pell Grants accepted that the program had grown unsustainably and had to be cut.

THE WORD

Metro's Monica Weymouth shares her take on the world of gossip @monicaatmetro monica.weymouth@metro.us

– Dorothy Robinson will return tomorrow.

Girl fight: Octomom vs. Kristen Johnston

We can't decide if we're really, really grateful to not have been flying to L.A. this weekend or sad that we missed this show: On Saturday night, Nadya Suleman (aka Octomom) and actress Kristen Johnston (of "3rd Rock from the Sun") found themselves on the same plane out of New York, and it wasn't pretty.

While waiting for the delayed flight to take off, Johnston confronted Suleman about her crying octuplets. And then — according to a statement to TMZ from Suleman's rep, who we suspect will be job-searching soon — came this delicious exchange between two C-list celebs who we would be afraid to share an armrest with:

Suleman: "How would you like me to keep eight 2-year-olds quiet?" (A good question, in theory.)

Johnston: "Get more help!" (A good answer, in reality.)

Suleman: "Why don't you grow a baby and get a life!" (All good has left the building.)

No thanks, says Kristen Stewart

We give Kristen Stewart a lot of trouble around here for the obvious reasons (skinny, great clothes, dates Robert Pattinson). But even we wouldn't have suggested she should play the role of Casey Anthony in any upcoming film — something plenty of others are, to her dismay. "Her people are really annoyed about the Casey Anthony comparisons," a source tells UsMagazine.com. "She would never for no amount of money portray that girl. It's grossing her out." Kristen, we owe you this: The resemblance is a stretch at best, and your hair has been looking really nice lately.

Talking points

Justin, Jessica back on?

While he's been making headlines with several famous beauties including Scarlett Johansson and Olivia Wilde since breaking up with Jessica Biel, Justin Timberlake reportedly isn't over his ex. And sources tell Us Weekly that the pair, who split up after four years in March, are quietly giving their relationship another go. "They have been talking the whole time and decided to give it another shot," a source says. "Jessica really wanted to get back together with him, and Justin realized single life is not what it's cracked up to be."

Arnold seeing his son

While dealing with an impending divorce from Maria Shriver, Arnold Schwarzenegger has reportedly been spending some quality time with the 13-year-old boy he fathered with housekeeper Mildred Baena, according to Radar Online. "Arnold wants to spend time with Joseph and play more of an active role in his life," a source says. "In a way, Arnold is relieved that he no longer has to hide the fact that he is Joseph's father." Joseph and his mother have reportedly been spending a lot of time at Schwarzenegger's Brentwood home as well.

Gayheart is expecting

Eric Dane and Rebecca Gayheart are expecting their second child, the couple confirms to People magazine. Their first child, daughter Billie, was born in March 2010. And parenthood has done wonders for their relationship, Dane admits. "You know, I'm a hundred times more attracted to her now and I love her exponentially more than I did before. It's just great to see her be a mother," he tells the magazine. Coincidentally, "Celeb Rehab" star Kari Ann Peniche, who infamously co-starred with the couple in a leaked sex tape in 2009, also announced that she's expecting a child, according to E! Online.

A sneak peek at new season of 'Damages'

Drama moves to DirecTV for fourth season That means there will be cussing in Patty Hewes' office

GETTY IMAGES

Top attorney Patty Hewes (Glenn Close) and her protegee Ellen Parsons (Rose Byrne) are back for Season 4 of "Damages," premiering Wednesday at 10 p.m. on DirecTV. Joining the power duo this season, which focuses on the ethics of private military companies, are John Goodman, Dylan Baker and Chris Messina.

"[Co-producers] Dan [Zelman], Glenn [Kessler] and I feel very lucky that each season — and this season is absolutely no exception — we've been joined by amazing actors who have wanted to jump off the edge of the cliff with us," co-creator Todd A. Kessler remarks. "This season in particular was one where there was a mystery at the center of it and Dylan, John and Chris were all game for that exploration."

Season 4 also marks the return of Byrnes' character to Patty's firm, Hewes & Associates; Close was quick to offer praise for the move.

FOR THE COMPLETE PROFILE, VISIT WWW.METRO.US/TV

"I really missed it when Rosie was at the DA's office," Close says. "We missed her on the set."

Canceled by FX, the show found a new home on DirecTV and can thus make use of profanity and some extra violence that may not have been appropriate for FX. "Damages" is also a huge hit internationally, and Close was able to speculate as to why that may be.

"I'm just a believer in good writing," she says. "We don't have the largest audience on television, but I've always been very impressed with how smart they are, and I think that's a huge compliment."

Kevin James' animal magnetism

The 'King of Queens' star acts opposite a gorilla and Cher in his latest family comedy 'We just wanted it to be a funny, funny movie for everybody,' he says

IAN GAVAN (STRINGER)/GETTY IMAGES EUROPE

Kevin James attends the "Zookeeper" photocall at the London Zoo.

Does the idea of Kevin James starring in a comedy alongside a bunch of talking zoo animals sound ridiculous? Maybe a little corny? Kevin James himself would agree with that.

"I was immediately not into doing an animal movie," he confesses. "It just felt so kinda goofy to me to do it, and then I started thinking about it more. If we could make it a great story where you didn't need animals — they're just kind of like buddies that could add to the film — I started getting more and more interested in it."

That's how the "King of Queens" star made his peace with starring in "Zookeeper," in which he plays an animal lover who feels he must ditch the job he enjoys to impress an ex who is reconsidering him. Once the animals reveal they can talk, they coach James' character on how to win his lady back.

"I've always loved physical comedy and putting something physical in all the movies that we do. I loved Jackie Gleason — anybody who was big and could move, I like a lot." JAMES

The actor is pleased with the film, but working directly with the live zoo animals was another story.

"The bears were close to us and all I would do was plan my escape route," he says. "Like, 'I know the cameraman's a smoker. I could push him in the way and then I'll be back in my trailer watching "SportsCenter."' That's the way I would plan it, and it was scary at times."

The animals are voiced by some Hollywood juggernauts — Adam Sandler, Cher, Nick Nolte, Sylvester Stallone, Judd Apatow and Jon Favreau — all of whom, James says, were excited about the strength of the film's script.

"They felt like it was a good movie and they jumped on board, and so it makes it easier for any character when you know who is playing that part," he says about the process of acting with their vocal performances in mind.

One thing the star is also adamant about was his desire to make a family film.

"We just wanted it to be a funny, funny movie for everybody, where you can feel comfortable bringing your kids," he says. "I've gone to movies with my kids and I'm bored out of my skull. There's just no comedy for adults so I wanted something where it's comedy for everybody."

'I want people to see that the deaf worlds and the hearing worlds really are not that different'

'Switched at Birth' star Katie Leclerc on playing deaf while being hard of hearing herself 'It's definitely a challenge, but it's a great challenge,' she tells us

Like her character Daphne Vasquez on the hit ABC Family drama "Switched at Birth," 24-year-old Katie Leclerc is hearing-impaired. The actress gave us a look into her life.

How did your involvement in the show come about?
When I read the script, I knew that we were tapping into something that had never been done before. When I heard Constance [Marie] was cast and Lea Thompson was cast, all the pieces of the puzzle started to come together. It really just rang true. This is the first show that's doing the deaf culture and showing the deaf culture in the way that we are, but we do it with respect and class — and it's a very accurate eye-hole into this world.

You play a character who's deaf, and you're hard of hearing. What's that like?
I was diagnosed with Menier's disease at age 20, and one of the symptoms is fluctuating hearing loss. Sometimes I can hear fine and sometimes I'm not able to hear the phone, for example, or respond to someone calling my name across the room. So I can relate to Daphne on those levels. The pressure and the ringing in the ears is a bummer, but it's just one of those things that you sort of get used to. The attacks of vertigo are the worst, but they happen more at night and production's very aware, so if I ever have a problem I'll just sit down and take a breather and they're very OK with that. It's very strange to only look at someone's mouth when they're talking, and with HD these days, [the audience sees] if you're looking at someone's eyes or mouth, so I have to be very aware of what I'm responding to. It's definitely a challenge, but it's a great challenge.

What do you want viewers to take away from the show?
I want people to see that the deaf worlds and the hearing worlds really are not that different. I want people to really feel like family is where you belong, and I hope that this show helps people connect back with their families. I hope that it exposes them to new cultures, and I hope people are less afraid of differences.

MEREDITH ENGEL
meredith.engel@metro.us

Watch Katie Leclerc in "Switched at Birth," Mondays at 9 p.m. on ABC Family.

Q&A

ABC Family has tackled some mature topics lately. Do you feel the pressure to be sexy in Hollywood?

I don't feel any pressure to go out and make poor decisions, and I think it's very sad when we look at these icons that young girls look up to, and the decisions that they make are just atrocious. I went through my rebellious phase as a teenager, but I feel like I've grown out of that a bit, and I'm very thankful that I have a better head on my shoulders now. If I had gotten "Switched at Birth" like five years ago, maybe I would have felt that pressure, but right now, I'm going through my day to day and I just feel happy.

'Switched' secrets

What's next on the show?

Daphne needs a new love interest, and I think that that's right around the corner. And [we'll see] the two families going head to head.

Constance Marie and Lea Thompson's characters [are] both very, very strong and very, very passionate. One of my favorite things is watching their scenes and seeing these two strong women go toe to toe for what they believe in.

Box office

LaBeouf's latest tops box office again

Big-budget action film "Transformers: Dark of the Moon" won the battle of the North American box office for the second straight week, churning up $47 million and easily beating two new comedies, according to studio estimates on Sunday.

Ticket sales for the third installment of the "Transformers" films about shape-shifting aliens eclipsed adult-targeted comedy "Horrible Bosses," which took in $28 million, and family film "Zookeeper," the weekend's number three movie with $21 million.

"Dark of the Moon," the third installment in the "Transformers" franchise, was released by Paramount Pictures, a unit of Viacom Inc. Directed by Michael Bay, it stars series original Shia LaBeouf and Rosie Huntington-Whiteley, who replaces Megan Fox.

Our Aim is to Beat Most Offers!

We Strive to Beat All Legitimate Written Offers

Before Bringing your items to us, take them to other dealers. Have them give you legitimate offers in writing. Then bring your jewelry and written offers to one of our locations. Although no one can guarantee with certainty they are paying the highest price for an article at any particular time, we will strive to beat most legitimate written offers.

Why We Can Usually Pay More Than Other Dealers

Most jewelers and dealers specialize in few items and focus on newer looking items to resell. Because they are unfamiliar with many other items including vintage jewelry, old watches, coins, flatware, etc. they tend to offer very low prices because these items are not readily saleable for them. Our company has many specialized buyers for the various classifications of items that we purchase, therefore we can usually pay more.

A Note Regarding the Up To Prices listed in this Ad

The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Customer Satisfaction

Most of our business comes from satisfied customers and referrals which includes their friends and families. Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

No Charge

We do not charge for our consultations. Find out how much cash your unwanted items will put in your pocket. Many customers have been surprised and delighted by the amount of money they received.

Safe, Secure & Friendly

Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

Licensed, Bonded & Insured

We are licensed, bonded and insured in all cities and towns in which we conduct business.

Help the Environment

Using recycled precious metals for jewelry is an important way for jewelers to source precious metals more responsibly. Precious metals that have already been used in some way, including "vintage," "renewed," or "reclaimed" metals from jewelry and electronics, are not directly implicated in the destructive impacts of mining. They do not share responsibility for the impacts of mining in the same way that newly mined gold does.

Sarah Ferguson

She's Fergalicious

The Duchess of York talks to us about her turbulent past and her new show on Oprah's OWN network 'Fergie-baiting sells newspapers'

Sarah Ferguson, the Duchess of York, has written a book, "Finding Sarah," detailing her "journey to find herself" a year after she was taped by a journalist asking for cash for access to her former husband, Prince Andrew of the British royal family. She starred in a docu-series of the same name for Oprah Winfrey's OWN network. The duchess dishes with us:

In the last few days, U.K. newspapers have published highly critical articles about you and your book. Do you ever get used to it?
I've had it for more than 20 years. I can't win with them. It's not a lot of fun, but Fergie-baiting sells newspapers.

Even the U.S. media criticized some of the things you did on the OWN shows.
Dr. Phil said I was addicted to approval. He was right, and my journey in the last year taught me that. I'm recovering from the need for approval. The media can say what they like — I've learned to live through it, and anyway the OWN series gave me friendships with Oprah, Dr. Phil and Suze Orman.

Diana would have been 50 this month. You obviously still miss her.
Bless her. I'm the only royal ex-wife out here. Without her, I'm the only one having to do it on my own — with no support structure. It's very difficult, because you are alone.

Loss is a key theme of the book. Your mother died in a car accident, your father from a long illness — and they divorced when you were young. What would you say if you could speak to them again?
That I love them, that I forgive them, that they have two wonderful granddaughters and that I'm a brilliant mum.

Do you recognize yourself on the video where you were set up by the journalist?
No. It was a crisis point for me, but I'm almost grateful because it forced me to confront my problems. This book and the journey I undertook are the result.

You make constant references to how wonderful your ex-husband, Prince Andrew, is. Can you ever be happy without being with him?
He is a wonderful man — my ideal, as I describe him in the book. Who knows what may happen? METRO

Q&A

Do you ever wish your daughters were not princesses?

Sometimes, yes. They live under the spotlight. But good can come of it. The hat that Beatrice wore to the Royal Wedding in April (and which was widely mocked) sold for $132,000 for UNICEF.

Mark Foster on why a few of the "Torches" songs are surprisingly vulnerable.

I write the music first, usually, and a lot of times the music will make me feel something. And I really try to channel what I'm feeling and write a song that will lyrically tell a story of what the music is making me do; but on the other hand, sometimes I undercut it and do something ironic, like "Pumped Up Kicks" for example. Vulnerability is definitely the hardest thing about being a musician. But the deeper you go and the harder you dig, the better song you create, because other people can vicariously live through your emotions.

To Foster an audience

Foster the People's single may be the song of summer Who cares if their catchy 'Pumped Up Kicks' actually came out more than a year ago?

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Visit us online at www.metro.us/mixtape for the full interviews with Foster the People.

Foster the People are such a grassroots success that papers have been calling their song, "Pumped Up Kicks" the song of the summer since spring of last year. Originally released on the band's own website, the song's gradually increasing popularity led to a major label deal with Columbia Records and their recently released full length, "Torches." The album hit No. 1 on the Billboard charts in the Rock Albums and Alternative Albums categories. Of the band's steady success singer Mark Foster jokes, "it's going to be the song of every summer."

I'd like to ask you about your influences — but I feel like I have to be cautious, because the lyrics of your song, "Call It What You Want" seem like such a critique of criticism, with the line about "You say, 'What's your style and who do you listen to?' Who cares?"

You're really perceptive if you got what that song was about. ... I played a song for a girl one time, and she was like, "You remind me of Prince meets John Mayer meets Incubus." And I was just like, "Are you kidding me? It's like none of those things!" It happens all the time, people compare stuff. We've got a lot of comparisons to MGMT, Peter Bjorn and John, Phoenix and whatever. And that doesn't really frustrate me. I think it just comes with the territory, especially when you're a new band.

At risk of you writing a song criticizing my observations, I got from "Torches" a 1980s sensibility, but it feels more like '80s pop than the new-wave '80s that other indie bands have embraced.

I grew up listening to all sorts of music. I've been working on the sound for Foster the People for seven years. ... And really in the last year and a half to two years is when it started to click. I never set out to try to capture one moment in history, musically. It's kind of everything all at once.

Managing your weekend inbox

New survey shows that one in three employees is expected to answer work-related e-mails on the weekends When to reply and when to wait

In a perfect world, it wouldn't even be possible to access your work e-mail from home. But plenty of us are expected to check inboxes after hours. According to a new survey by the career experts at Right Management, one third of employees get e-mails from their bosses over the weekend that they are expected to reply to.

More than 569 people responded to the poll, which specifically asked if workers were expected to reply and not just receiving general office updates. It's another symptom, says Right Management vice president Gary Bennett, of our increasingly wired off-work hours. "Advances in technology have enabled a 24/7 working environment," he says. "Employees need to discuss communication expectations with managers and agree on what is realistic and what is not. Gain a mutual understanding for when something really warrants the employee's response over a weekend and when it doesn't."

As a general rule, Bennett advises waiting until Monday to respond when a message isn't time-sensitive. And when should you hit reply? If the message is marked with the dreaded, red "urgent" flag — or "if it directly relates to a project you are driving and has implications on anticipated results."

Survey says ...

"Does your boss send you work-related e-mails over the weekend and expect you to respond?"

- Yes, often: 33 percent
- Only from time to time: 30 percent
- Never: 37 percent

Advice

DAN SCHAWBEL
PERSONALBRANDINGBLOG.COM

New job, same company

One of my good friends is working for a major corporation in a role that no longer challenges him. He's been in his position for over a year now and is interested in doing something completely different inside the same company, but he's concerned that it will hurt him politically if he announces that he wants to transfer to a different department. Here are some tips for a smooth transition:

Be honest and up front with your manager: Most companies want you to stay in your role for at least a year. Your manager should be the first to know about your desire to move across the organization, because he can recommend you for a new position and connect you to the hiring manager. If you make it known that you're looking to move without telling your boss, it might get back and make him look bad.

Expert advice

Brand yourself for the career you want, not the job you have: If your website and social networks only mention your current job, then you will keep attracting opportunities related to your current job, instead of your ideal job. By constructing your online brand to reflect your passion and the job you want, those opportunities will find you.

Network with employees who have the job you want: Through your internal social network, LinkedIn or referrals, you should pinpoint who is already doing what you want to do across your company. Then, contact them directly to find out more about them, how they like their roles and what their jobs consist of. By forming relationships with these employees, it will help your chances at securing a new job.

Don't slack off: It's very easy to lose focus at your job if you're searching for a new one. The best way to get promoted — or to just move around in your organization — is to be extremely good at what you're currently doing first.

▶ When you're working together, you're together a lot. Find ways to create personal space and boundaries.

THINKSTOCK

When your spouse is also your co-worker

▶ It can be an ideal situation or HR disaster ▶ Why you need to create boundaries at home and in the office ▶ How to handle other co-workers

It's one thing to be married to your job. But to be married to someone else who works there? Couples who clock into the same office also share commutes and professional aspirations — a situation that needs to be carefully managed.

"A lot of people do it extremely well, and it's really common," workplace relationship guru Courtney Anderson says. "It's a great way to maximize your resources and benefits; and when it works, it works amazingly."

And when it doesn't? You could get fired and divorced by the same boss — ouch. Here's how to stay on the right track:

Keep it seriously professional: "When it's done right, people take their work very seriously," Anderson says. "They're not like, 'Can you file this business report, oh honey, I love you, can you pick up the kids?'"

It's all about creating — and then staying within — the lines, agrees "Office Mate" author Helaine Olen, who has worked alongside her husband for five years. "You cannot use your spousal relationship in any way, shape or form to get a favor," she emphasizes.

Give yourself space: The tough part about splitting an office with your soulmate isn't finding a way to work together, it's finding a way to be apart. "There is obviously a thing called too much togetherness," Olen warns. "Be careful about that. Commute to work separately — it's a really neat solution to the problem. It gives you some time to be apart."

DREW HINSHAW
letters@metro.us

From the outside

When creating a plan to work together, don't forget about your co-workers. "It should seem almost weird from the outside," Anderson says. "People will say 'Oh, that's your husband? But you seem so formal with them.' But why shouldn't you be formal? Team members aren't there to see you patting each other on the butt."

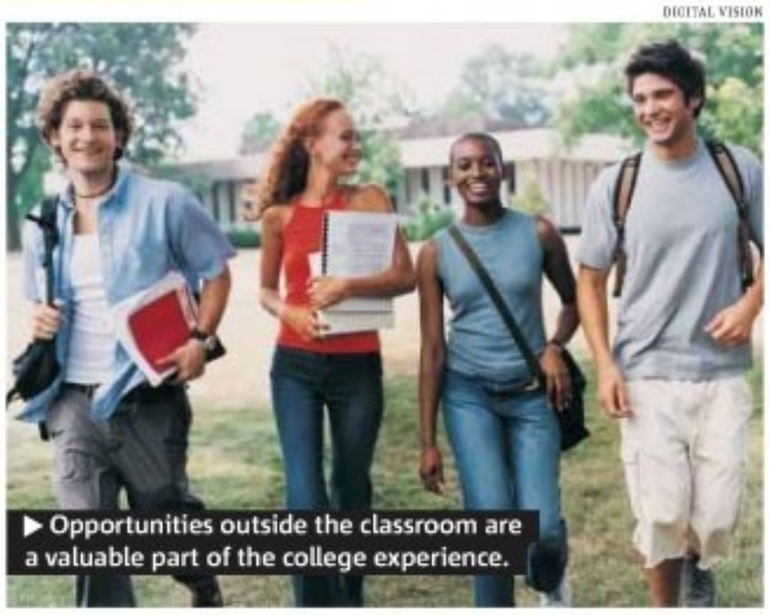
How to level the other playing fields

When it comes to extracurricular opportunities on campus, some students are at a disadvantage

DIGITAL VISION



▶ Opportunities outside the classroom are a valuable part of the college experience.

Sociologist Jenny Stuber has devoted her career to studying inequality in higher education. Her first book, "Inside the College Gates: How Class and Culture Matter in Higher Education" (Lexington Books), looks at the role extracurricular activities play in maintaining class structures.

How are extracurricular activities in college different than in high school?

There are more of them to navigate and they have higher stakes. Suddenly there are research opportunities, internships, Greek life, et cetera. Some students are better prepared to navigate that — based on past experiences — than others.

How can colleges make this situation better?

There's a long generational history of people with a social class advantage being able to reproduce that advantage in universities. Students from working-class backgrounds are always going to be playing catchup in the big picture. But in the small picture, there are things colleges can and should do. It's really a lot of intense work to create smaller learning units, to be very intentional about how residential life is set up and to reduce barriers to living on campus.

What inspired you to write this book?

I was fortunate enough to go to Northwestern for undergrad, but my family didn't have much higher-education background. Given my social class situation, I was really bewildered. I became a sociology major because I could explore what I was feeling.

One child can't tell her story

In my opinion, any parent that waits 31 days to report a child missing is either insane, covering it up or both. Alas, what the verdict of "not guilty" has done for Casey Anthony is to turn her into a star. She'll pose in Playboy or Penthouse and be paid a king's ransom to tell her side of the story. A-list actors will want to play her in a movie with a $300,000,000 budget. All the while, a child is dead and will never be able to tell her side of the story. ANTHONY P. JOHNSON, VIA E-MAIL

Lies, damned lies — and news

CBS recently faked images of a fireworks show. Lying mass media is not a recent or infrequent thing. More thoughts on gay marriage

RE: "DO, DON'T LET FREEDOM RING": I don't understand the preoccupation and fear some males have toward same-sex marriage. They fear two men having sex and getting married but nothing of two women. Gentleman, if you don't want to marry another man, don't do it! In my life experience, those who yell the most about this issue are probably wishing the most to lie next to another man. EFRAIN ACEVEDO, VIA E-MAIL

Sean Cassidy's letter rebutting a private contract argument on gay marriage suggests that instances of "polygamy, polyandry and incestuous relations" would increase if the government stayed out of marriage. This represents less than one-one hundredth of one percent of our population. To think that the government can make some undesired practice go away by making it illegal is naive. Illegal drugs still find their way to willing consumers despite the "war on drugs." KELLY DONNOE, LYNBROOK

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. The new week brings fresh thinking and a solution for something you couldn't figure out how to do last week, but might now become clear as a bell to you. Act on it immediately.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. A happier and more successful week could be in store for you if you plan something out of the ordinary that doesn't include those who insist on running things. It'll be fun.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Regardless of where you go, your popularity is likely to soar. It's your inner feelings of friendliness that people will be drawn to.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. There is a strong likelihood that chance will play a critical role in your financial affairs. It behooves you to stay on your toes and watch for chances.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. Some special information to which you become privy could be exceptionally fortunate when put to constructive use. It behooves you to act promptly while these conditions prevail.

♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Although a matter of significance is likely to be controlled by another, should you be asked to help develop it, you'll have a chance to work your way into sharing in its benefits.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Nothing will make you happier than doing what you can for loved ones in order to fulfill their needs. You'll do everything possible to help them.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Although you can tend to be a loner at times, today it'll be some kind of partnership arrangement that will bring you a sense of fulfillment. Team up whenever you can.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. Do not underestimate what you do for others, whether it is performing some kind of complicated task or simply doing someone a favor. Your talents and efforts will be greatly appreciated. BERNICE BEDE OSOL

YANKS HIT HALFWAY

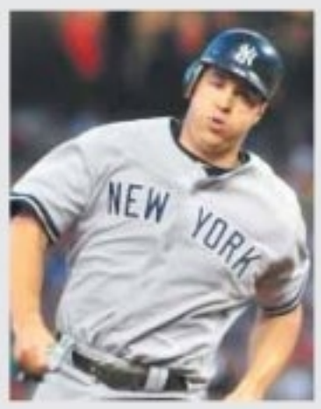
It's the All-Star Break, so Metro hands out its midseason report card Yanks stand second in AL East to Sox Sabathia aces first half, but where did Swish go? MARK OSBORNE

PHOTOS: GETTY IMAGES

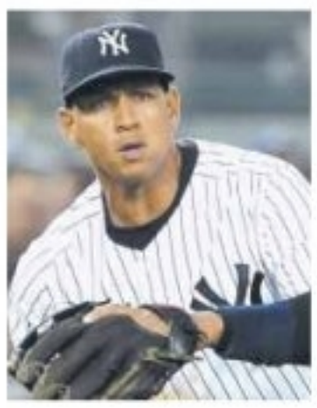
C — Derek Jeter: Yes, he got hit 3,000. Yes, it was exciting, perfect and straight from Hollywood. Unfortunately, he's slugging .354 and 65% of his batted balls are grounders (last in MLB).

A– Curtis Granderson: How do 25 home runs and 79 runs scored sound? No, not for the year. Just for the first 86 games. He has already surpassed both totals from 2010. Oh, and Austin Jackson is batting .245. Just saying.

B — Mark Teixeira: Yankees fans would be a lot happier if he wasn't batting .245, but he is still producing. Plus, he's always been better in the second half. We could be looking at 50+ home runs.

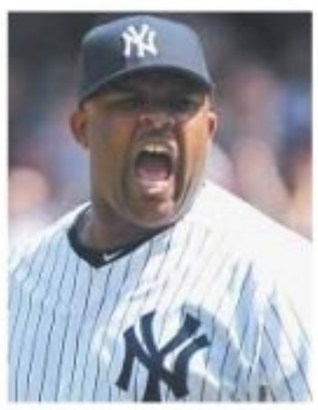


B– Alex Rodriguez: He's hurt. He has no power. Silver lining: At least it's not the hip. A-Rod has actually been decent outside of having only 13 homers. He is still hitting .295; and post-surgery, the power should return.

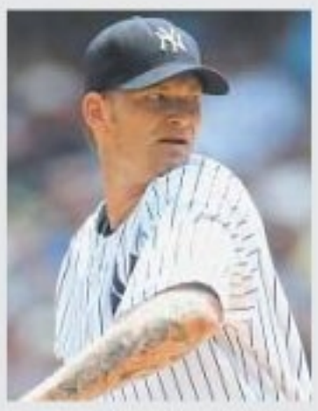


D — Nick Swisher: JoAnna Garcia what have you done? Everyone's favorite Yankee is now everyone's scapegoat. He's a free agent next year, and a recent hot streak might not be enough to keep him.

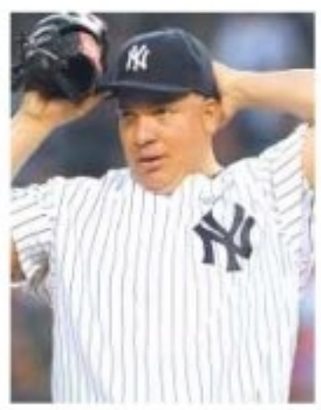
A — CC Sabathia: You can't ask for much more from your ace than 13 wins and a sub-3.00 ERA at the All-Star Break. Well, I guess you could ask for an invitation to the game, but apparently that was too much.



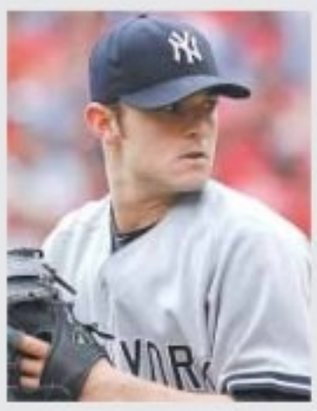
C+ A.J. Burnett: The best you can say about Burnett is that he isn't as bad as last year. Then again, he's hardly pitching like a guy who could start a pivotal Game 2 in a playoff series either.



A — Bartolo Colon: Stem cell injections for everyone! Who else can the Yankees bring back? How about Mark Prior, he's hurt again. Colon has been good beyond any expectations. Thanks Dr. Leonel Liriano!



C — Bullpen: The bullpen may be the weakest link of this team (once the lineup is healthy). Mariano Rivera has been OK; David Robertson has been good. Anyone else wanna pitch?



B+ Joe Girardi: The Yankees manager has been criticized a lot in the past. Sometimes he's deserved it. Not this year. He handled the Jeter and Phil Hughes injuries perfectly. Now he has to handle the A-Rod injury.

A-Rod out 4-6 weeks with bum knee

Speculation over the extent to which Alex Rodriguez's right knee is injured can now end.

Rodriguez will need arthroscopic surgery to repair a torn meniscus in his right knee. It will keep him sidelined for four to six weeks. Rodriguez decided to have the surgery after flying to Miami to get a second opinion from Dr. Lee Kaplan, who will perform the surgery today.

Alex Rodriguez remained productive for the last few weeks, but there were subtle signs that something was amiss.

Rodriguez batted .359 in 16 games since June 18, the weekend in Chicago when the right knee issue was initially reported, but his power was lacking. He was in the midst of going 85 straight at-bats without a home run, putting him on a pace for just 24 this season.

"You could tell something was wrong with him."
CC SABATHIA, WHO PITCHED WITH THE SAME INJURY LAST YEAR

"There's no doubt we're going to miss him," manager Joe Girardi said after yesterday's 1-0 win over the Rays. "But we need to find a way, as I've said several times this year, some people are going to have to step up and up to this point, this team has. We certainly look forward to getting a healthy Alex back into our lineup because we know what he adds to this team."

Tour de Carnage

It was another violent day in the Tour de France Sunday. In a tour that's seen many crashes already, including American star Levi Leipheimer, a French TV car ran into two riders during Stage 9. David Millar described the accident as "one of the scariest crashes I've seen."

Miracle win for US women
U.S. soccer certainly has a flair for the dramatic.

Landon Donovan did it for the men. This year, Abby Wambach scored in overtime and the US women won on penalty kicks down to 10 players most of the second half.

Sabathia: Thanks, but no thanks

NICK LAHAM/GETTY IMAGES

▶ CC Sabathia will be spending the break in the Bahamas.

- All-Star nod finally comes for CC, but he passes on the opportunity
- Jeter, Rivera, Rodriguez all skipping out on the midsummer classic

It took a week, but the winningest pitcher in baseball was finally named to the All-Star team.

Problem is, CC Sabathia is heading to the Bahamas.

While Sabathia was working on his 12th career shutout and major league-leading 13th win, it was announced that he was an All-Star. That came with a disclaimer. Texas right-hander Alexi Ogando was simultaneously announced as Sabathia's replacement.

Sabathia pitched the final game of the first half and that never was a big deal for him, especially because of his alternative plans.

"I was never upset about it," Sabathia said after winning his sixth straight start. "It's definitely exciting."

On TV tonight

MLB Home Run Derby
7 p.m., ESPN

Sabathia is the fourth Yankee this season to take a pass on the midsummer classic. Alex Rodriguez will skip it while recovering from knee surgery, Mariano Rivera will rest a minor sore triceps and Derek Jeter will skip it to further rest his calf.

Jeter has started every game since coming off the disabled list last Monday and Rivera pitched — and pitched well — Saturday.

"I see these guys everyday," Sabathia said. "I've seen these guys every day since February. I'll see them Thursday."

While Sabathia was not disappointed when the announcement was made on national TV last week, teammates wondered why he was even snubbed in the first place.

"I still don't understand what happened there," Mark Teixeira said. "But I'm glad he finally got that nod."

Sabathia's latest domination yesterday against the Rays extended his scoreless innings streak to a career-high 23 2/3 innings.

It was so good in fact that A.J. Burnett even hit Sabathia with a pie, an honor normally reserved for game-ending hits.

"Why not?" Burnett said. "Did you see what he did"?

Robertson will make AS trip

MLB announced David Robertson will replace David Price on the AL All-Star team. He was left off the team despite a 1.27 ERA.

Robertson had to cancel his fishing trip to Connecticut, but didn't seem to mind when Girardi told him during the second inning.

"If I got the call, I was going," he said. "There was no chance, I wasn't going."

Derek Jeter: Greatest hits collection

No. 1 was not exactly a hard call But how do you choose from the 2,999 other hits? Metro scoured the box scores for his top 10

10 Aug. 16, 2009 Jeter doesn't revel in his personal accomplishments, but on this day he passed Luis Aparicio for most hits by a shortstop with 2,675.

9 June 18, 2005 Jeter stepped in with the bases loaded in the sixth against the Chicago Cubs and finally cleared the bases. It was Jeter's first career grand slam. He'd had 155 plate appearances with the bases loaded and 156 home runs without hitting a grand slam. Both were the most by active players at the time. It is still the only grand slam of Jeter's storied career.

8 April 5, 2005 Mariano Rivera blew a save by allowing a home run to Jason Varitek — but he was the winning pitcher when Jeter drove a pitch from Keith Foulke over the wall for his only regular-season game ending home run. Of course everyone knows about his other in the 2001 World Series.

MICHAEL HEIMAN/GETTY IMAGES

1 July 9, 2011 You all know No. 1. Jeter hit No. 3,000 over the left-field wall and went down in history as the only Yankee with that many career hits.

7 April 29, 2004 When Derek Jeter stepped in against then Oakland pitcher Barry Zito he hadn't had a hit in 32 at-bats. But that quickly ended when he sent Zito's first pitch over the wall.

6 May 26, 2006 Jeter reached 2,000 hits a month shy of his 32nd birthday with an infield single off Royals pitcher Scott Elarton. The hit was actually an infield dribbler on a wet field that catcher Paul Bako bungled, overthrowing first base and a hustling Jeter. After a moment's wait, it was ruled a base hit.

5 Sept. 16, 2008 Jeter passed Lou Gehrig for most career hits at Yankee Stadium with a single off Gavin Floyd in the final week of the old stadium.

4 April 2, 1996 On a freezing day in Cleveland, Jeter hit a homer for his 13th career hit, and first round-tripper, in his debut as the full-time starter at shortstop.

3 Sept. 11, 2009 Jeter broke the Yankees' all-time hits mark with his 2,722nd hit. He surpassed Lou Gehrig with a base hit to right field.

2 July 9, 2011 Hit 3,003 isn't usually worth noting, but when you're Derek Jeter it's a game-winning single to close out a historic day because of ...
